

Kill MRSA before it kills you.

At first, I thought it was just a bug bite, or maybe an ingrown hair on my calf. A couple of days later the "bite" turned into a baseball-sized swelling and started to throb. Then, I was admitted into the hospital with a leg swollen to twice its normal size. A day later my wife was told by the doctor that the infection (MRSA) may necessitate the amputation of my leg and if it reached my internal organs it could kill me. It was touch and go for a while. Luckily, I'm back to normal, I wish I could say the same for my leg.

IF YOU NOTICE:

- Boils: tender, red lumps that swell and get pimple-like white heads.
  - Boils can form on oily or moist skin such as neck, armpits, groin, and buttocks.
- Small red bumps that look like spider bites or ingrown hairs.
- Pain out of proportion to skin conditions.

If you notice any of the below symptoms (or any abnormal skin conditions), NOTIFY YOUR MEDICAL STAFF IMMEDIATELY, it could be a matter of life or death.

MRSA when left untreated may cause a host of medical problems some resulting in amputation of infected body parts or even death.

In sports, body contact or equipment sharing are common causes of staph cross-infections that can be passed on to other team members. HIBICLENS® the antimicrobial, antiseptic skin cleanser can be part of an effective defense for preventing the spread of MRSA. Its active ingredient works in a unique way – it kills germs on contact and bonds to the skin to keep killing microorganisms up to 6 hours after washing. Hibiclens® has been proven to kill MRSA (in vitro) and other staph infections.<sup>1,2</sup>
